

For more information see <http://kaufmann-cpa.com/newsletters/underreported-income.html> (David Kaufmann, CPA, not the IRS!)

Prevent Delays in the Processing of Your CP 2000 Response

In order to prevent delays in the processing of your CP 2000 response, send all responses, including Form 1040X, to the Service Center shown in the upper left hand corner of the notice. Failure to send the response to the Service Center that issued the notice will result in a delay of 2 to 3 months, while the information is rerouted to the correct site.

Delays can be also be avoided by attaching a copy of the notice (CP 2000, CP2501 or a Statutory Notice of Deficiency) to the response or Form 1040X. This will ensure that the information is correctly identified and routed appropriately.

The Service Center that sent the notice has the case file available, enabling them to provide quick and accurate resolution. Additional information concerning the CP 2000 Program can be found under Tax Topic 652, Notice of Underreported Income – CP 2000.